

4

HJ 338.89.1.1

348853
5.4.38.

CLASS OF 1889

Harvard College

SEVENTH ANNUAL BULLETIN, 1921-1922

BIRTHS.

F. Green, Cornelia Green, born Feb. 9, 1922.

MARRIAGES.

M. Agassiz to (Mrs.) Laura M. Boyd, at Concord, N. H., Sept. 16, 1921.

DEATHS.

George Wentworth, August 26, 1921, at Belgrade Lakes, Maine.

William Butler Ogden, October 13, 1921.

Samson David Oppenheim, December 10, 1921, at New York, N. Y.

Albert Gallatin Brodhead, January 23, 1922, at Denver, Colorado.

Henry Pratt McKean, April 10, 1922, at sea.

COMMENCEMENT DAY, 1921.

At the informal Class Dinner, June 22, 1921, held at the University Club (on one of the hottest nights of the year) the following 29 men were present: Brewster, Bunker, Burdett, Caner, Coulson, Crocker, Durfee, Grew, Hebard, A. D. Hodges, Hunneman, Jennings, Joline, King, Maynadier, Olmsted, Perry, Prescott, Reynolds, Richards, Richardson, Slattery, Stone, Townsend, Trafford, C. Warren, B. C. Weld, G. F. Weld, and Wentworth. Informal speeches were made by King, G. F. Weld and others, and a delegation was received from the Class of '81.

At 12 Hollis on Commencement Day, June 23, 1921, the following 32 men were present: Bigelow, Burdett, Caner, Coulson, DeBlois, W. C. Green, Grew, Gunther, Hathaway, Hebard, A. D. Hodges, Holliday, Hunneman, Jennings, Joline, King, Litchfield, Maynadier, J. W. Merrill, Morgan, Moore, Morse, Olmsted, Perry, J. S. Phelps, Prescott, Proctor, Saunders, Townsend, Trafford, C. Warren, and Whitney.

NEW ADDRESSES.

(Home)

Oscar M. Anderson, North Station, McAlester, Okla.
 Richard L. Curran, 3 Lawton Ave., Glen Falls, N. Y.
 Alfred P. Hebard, 6 Story St., Cambridge, Mass.
 Carleton Hunneman, 107 Upland Road, Brookline, Mass.
 Maxwell A. Kilvert, Oviedo, Fla.
 Harry G. Lapham, 4141 N. Hermitage Ave., Chicago, Ill.
 George S. Macpherson, 102 Merriman Ave., Asheville, N. C.
 James M. Marvin, Saratoga Club, Saratoga Springs, N. Y.
 Sidney E. Shuman, Hotel Somerset, Boston, Mass.
 George F. Weld, 122 Eucalyptus Lane, Santa Barbara, Calif.

(Business)

Charles F. Cogswell, 376 Boylston St., Boston, Mass.
 Horace D. Everett, 66 Stanhope St., Boston, Mass.
 Carleton Greene, 52 Vanderbilt Ave., New York, N. Y.
 Clinton S. Martin, 342 Madison Ave., New York, N. Y.
 James H. Proctor, 177 State St., Boston, Mass.
 Philip M. Reynolds, 55 Congress St., Boston, Mass.
 Irving Ruland, 144 East 48th St., New York, N. Y.
 Joseph H. Sears, 24 Broad St., New York, N. Y.
 James W. Smith, 35 Nassau St., New York, N. Y.

CLASS NEWS.

O. M. Anderson writes: "Aside from such general-run honors as being by election president of one club and by unanimous consent the most uncertain golf player in another, nothing new has come to me except having been made a Mason of the Thirty-Third Degree, by the Supreme Council of the Scottish Rite for the Southern Jurisdiction of the United States. I hope it is no sin for even an '89 man to be proud of the latter."

A. G. Barret is the senior partner in the law firm of Barret & Nettlebrath, organized this year, the firm of Barret, Allen & Atkinson being dissolved. He is a member of a commission to select the location for two State Normal Schools in Kentucky. The Kentucky Educational Survey Commission, of which he was a member, published in 1921 its report entitled "Public Education in Kentucky."

C. C. Batchelder, United States Trade Commissioner in India, was detailed during the last winter by the Department of Commerce to be a liaison officer of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, in connection with International Conference for the Limitation of Armament; he has now returned to India.

W. B. Bentley's son, Harold Jackson Bentley, graduated from the Ohio State University in June, 1921.

G. W. W. Brewster attended the Triennial Convention of the Congress of American Physicians and Surgeons in Washington, this May.

Albert Gallatin Brodhead died in Denver, Colorado, January 23, 1922. He was born at Philadelphia, Pa., June 14, 1867, the son of Daniel Dingman and Mary Ann (Broderick) Brodhead. He was educated for college at Wilkes-Barre, and entered Harvard with the Class of 1888, becoming a member of our Class in his senior year. After graduation, he became a civil engineer on the Lehigh Valley R. R. at Wilkes-Barre. From 1898, he was general manager of the Brodhead Coal Co., and secretary of the Aguilar Land Association, residing in Denver, Aguilar and Brodhead, Colorado. He was also interested in politics, being a delegate to frequent Republican State and Congressional Conventions.

F. M. Brooks' daughter, Louise Bruce Brooks, was married to Horace B. Van Everen of Cambridge, Sept. 15, 1921.

F. M. Brown was promoted to be Colonel in the Regular Army last January. He has been transferred from Washington to Governor's Island, N. Y., as Staff Judge Advocate to Major General Bullard.

A. Burr is a member of and much interested in the Military Training Camps Association of the United States. He is vice-chairman of the Boston Reception Committee for the Associated Harvard Clubs Meeting.

R. C. Cabot gave a series of six lectures at the Lowell Institute, Boston, last fall on "Veracity and its Enemies," with the following titles: "Definitions and Varieties of Truth and Falsehood; relation to Prediction and Credit," "Types and Degrees of Lying; obvious and implied, artistic, belligerent, commercial, philanthropic and polite," "Motives and Defences," "Truth and Falsehood in Art and Medicine," "Physical, Economic, Legal and Educational Aspects," "Self Deception and Self Knowledge; Proofs of Veracity." Extracts from his book "What Men Live By" are appearing daily on the editorial page of the Boston Herald. In answer to the Class Secretary's inquiry as to the nature of Cabot's duties as Professor of Social Ethics at Harvard, he writes that he is giving three courses: ((1) "Ethics of Human Relations (Confidence, Freedom, Veracity, Property, Chastity);" (2) "Character in Difficulties (Case-teaching by examples of delinquency, insanity, old age, loneliness in a new country, physical handicap, illness, etc.);” (3) “Seminary Preparation by the members of written cases for teaching purposes.” Several ethical case-books are in preparation starting from this seminary.

C. F. Cogswell has opened an office at 376 Boylston St., Boston.

C. Copeland was elected secretary and member of the board of directors of E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co., in June, 1921, succeeding Alexis I. du Pont. He is President of the Harvard Club of Delaware.

C. E. Curry has edited the Diary of Sir Roger Casement.

C. B. Davenport has written a paper on “Comparative Social Traits of Various Races.” He has been elected a corresponding member of the Zoological Society of London.

W. P. Derby has been appointed school physician in Framingham, Mass. He writes, as to the Associated Harvard Clubs Meeting:

“How in the world can a poor old doe,
Who works 'steen hours a day by the village clock,
For a pittance of pay and still less rest,
Find time and money for this grand gab fest?”

R. N. Durfee was elected first President of the Fall River Historical Society (organized last year).

H. D. Everett is now doing business in Boston under the name of Everett Printing Service.

M. L. Gerstle has been elected Vice-President of the Western Department of the Military Training Camps Association of the United States. The National Executive Secretary wrote in a bulletin issued by the Association that: “Captain Gerstle is a man of the highest standing in his community. He has a fine record for business efficiency and did conspicuously good work during the war.” Gerstle writes to me that he has charge of three training camps in the 9th corps area this summer, containing approximately 3,000 men.

A. Goadby writes: “No new babies, or marriages, or vocations; in fact no indiscretions of any kind, even literary. On the contrary, I extend to my friends of '89 the same old good wishes, congratulations and affection. I certainly hope to be present in June.”

J. L. Goodale attended the Triennial Convention of the Congress of American Physicians and Surgeons, in Washington, this May.

G. V. Gray writes from Berkeley, Calif.: “Sincerely wish I could be with you in June. Same old story as to myself.”

W. C. Green writes: "No news, I am just the same (so far as I can see)."

C. Greene has been chosen a vestryman of the Church of the Holy Communion at South Orange, N. J.

E. W. Hawley, while still a Member of the Board of Aldermen of Minneapolis, is an instructor in Parliamentary Law at the University of Minnesota Law School.

J. R. Hayes composed a May Day Masque, "The Crowning of Corinna," for performance at Swarthmore College, May 11, 1922. He has also written some striking verses on a newly found portrait of William Penn.

A. P. Hebard is now living in Cambridge, Mass., where his son is attending Browne & Nichols' School.

A. D. Hodges took an extensive trip through Florida, Texas, Georgia, South Carolina and Virginia this spring.

G. H. Holiday has been chosen "Master under Dispensation" of the Harvard Lodge, a Masonic Lodge, instituted, May 18, 1922, for men connected with Harvard University, whose charter members (111 in number) include Professors, Assistant Professors, students, employees and a few graduates, representing every department of the University.

M. D. Hull has been elected a director in the Mississippi Power Co. He writes: "I had hoped to be in Cambridge and Boston at the time of the meeting of the Associated Harvard Clubs at Commencement time. However, the closing sessions of our Illinois Constitutional Convention, which has been dragged out for more than two years, will begin June 13, and will require my time and presence. For this reason, it will be impossible for me to be on hand. I am exceedingly sorry for this, and shall be glad to be remembered kindly to any friends who are interested in inquiring about me. I have been much favored in life in many ways, and wish that all my classmates may have been equally fortunate."

O. C. Joline will spend this summer in Paris.

M. A. Kilvert has removed his residence and main office from Jacksonville to Oviedo, Fla., which is the location of his present plantation interests.

H. B. Lathrop is Professor of English at the University of Wisconsin. He published "Freshman Composition" (The Century Co., 1920).

G. D. Latimer has returned to this country, after a year and a half's absence in Europe. He writes: "Last winter in Rome, I saw much of W. F. Giese, '89 (Assistant Professor of Romance Languages in University of Wisconsin) who was on his sabbatical."

W. W. Magee made an eloquent speech in behalf of the larger navy in the debate in Congress in April, 1922.

P. Marquand's son, John P. Marquand, has written a novel published by Charles Scribner Sons, entitled, "The Unspeakable Gentleman," which has received unusually favorable criticisms; he is engaged to be married to Christine Davenport Sedgwick of Stockbridge, Mass.

W. R. Marsh is Chairman of the Diocesan Council (Protestant Episcopal Church) of Long Island.

C. S. Martin's daughter, Mary Somerville Watson, was married to William Perry Kennard, of Boston, Sept. 1, 1921.

J. M. Marvin is now residing in Saratoga Springs, N. Y.

Henry Pratt McKean died at sea while on a European trip in his yacht, April 10, 1922. He was born at Philadelphia, Pa., January 12, 1866, the son of Thomas and Elizabeth (Wharton) McKean. After preparing for college at St. Paul's School, he entered as a special student in September, 1885, and left in the middle of Sophomore year. After taking an extensive tour around the world, he was married to Marian Shaw at Brookline, Mass., June 5, 1889, and resided for many years in Germantown, Pa. In 1904, he moved to Pennlyn, where he engaged in general dairy farming and tree husbandry, until his death. His time was divided between these occupations and his financial interest connected with his trusteeship of his father's estate. He was a director in numerous railroads and coal companies. He also maintained an active interest in polo, cricket, hunting, four-in-hand driving, etc. In 1914 he wrote to the Secretary: "My endeavor has been to run my farm on a scientific and as economical basis as possible. For some years, I shipped milk wholesale to the Philadelphia markets, and I have gradually built up an excellent herd of graded Guernsey cattle, having for fifteen years used a registered bull on good grade cows. Within a year, owing to changed market conditions, I have changed from shipping milk and am making butter. This last year I have put on a small herd of registered Short-Horn cattle, with the expectation of selling the excess as high grade beef. A herd of registered Berkshire swine is gradually getting to a high grade of excellence. Local politics have never interested me, outside of the 'good roads' question, and I regret that my qualifications have not led me toward literary pursuits; but anything connected with farming and country life, especially arboriculture, has been of deep interest." After his divorce in April, 1914, he married, Dec. 2, 1914, Margaret Moore Riker of New York, who survives him. Trouble with his eyes prevented him from taking any active part in war work. His oldest son, Henry Pratt McKean, born May 13, 1890 (Harv. '13), was married in June 1913, to Elizabeth Perkins Lee, and has three daughters; he attended Plattsburg, received a commission as First Lieutenant and served in the Intelligence Dept., and later as Captain in command of the Aero Squadron at Fort Wayne, Mich. His other son, Quincy Adams Shaw McKean, born Nov. 1, 1891 (Harv. '13), attended Plattsburg, was commissioned as Second Lieutenant, promoted to First Lieutenant in Field Artillery and to Captain, 76th Div., serving in France.

J. D. Merrill is a member of the Committee on Policy in Publicity, of the Associated Harvard Clubs; he is also a director of the Harvard Alumni Association and editor of the Harvard Alumni Bulletin.

T. B. Meteyard wrote last spring (too late for publication in my annual bulletin) that he "had a rather successful exhibition of my pictures at George Petit's Galleries in Paris last autumn."

C. H. Moore is abroad until September, on his sabbatical, visiting North Africa, Sicily and Italy. He represented Harvard University at a celebration of the University of Padua. A classmate writes that: "Moore's work as Chairman of the Committee on Instruction at Harvard gives him a great and growing influence in the administration of the College."

J. P. Morgan is a member of the bankers' conference now meeting in Paris to consider the question of an international loan to Germany.

J. P. Nields is a Vice-President of the Harvard Club of Delaware.

William Butler Ogden, died October 13, 1921. He was born at Chicago, Ill., the son of Mahlon Dickerson and Frances (Sheldon) Ogden of New York. After preparing for college at Berkeley School, N. Y., he entered in September, 1885, and left at the end of the Freshman year. He was married to Eleonora Bartlett, at Portsmouth, N. H., Dec. 28, 1886, and had two children, William Ogden, born Jan. 29, 1890, and Eleonora Ogden, born Nov. 21, 1892. He resided in Balaimore, Md., and had interests at Lemon City in Florida. He was interested in travel, and published several papers on this subject.

F. L. Olmsted writes: "Am pursuing the even tenor of my way, and am glad to report that I am still in tune."

Samson David Oppenheim, died at New York, N. Y., December 21, 1921. He was born in New York, Feb. 16, 1867, the son of Samson and Sophia (Herman) Oppenheim of New York. After preparing for college at the New York Public School and in the B. S. College of the City of New York, he entered with the Class of 1889 in Junior year. After graduating, he was engaged in journalism at Philadelphia until 1898. He enlisted in the army as a private in the 71st N. Y. Vol. in the Spanish War, May 16, 1898, and served at Santiago, but was in the hospital, suffering from typhoid fever from July to October. After serving for a year in the employ of the Board of Education of New York City, he became, in August, 1903, an Examiner for the New York Municipal Civil Service Commission, remaining in that position until his death. He also studied accountancy and law, receiving from New York University degrees of Bachelor of Commercial Service in 1902, LL. B. in 1904, and LL. M. and T. D. in 1906. He became lecturer in Finance in 1904, and Assistant Professor in 1905 in New York University. He was admitted to the New York Bar in 1909, practicing there until his death. He was married to Laura Levy at New York, N. Y., June 11, 1889, who died April 9, 1896; and he married Kathryn Gertrude Lynch Moore at New York, Aug. 19, 1908. His son, Laurance David Oppenheim, born Nov. 30, 1890, volunteered in the World War and served as a Sergeant at Base Hospital No. 37. His daughter, Katherine Faith Oppenheim, was born Oct. 28, 1918.

C. H. Palmer has a grandson, Richard Perry Mathews, born Oct. 2, 1920, named after his uncle, who was killed in the St. Mihiel drive in 1918, in France. His daughter, Gertrude Buckingham Palmer, was married to Rudy Pole Matthews of Milwaukee, June 10, 1919, who served in France with the 18th F. A. 3d Division, as Second Lieutenant.

F. E. Parker's son, F. E. Parker, Jr., was one of the two representatives of the Kent Club, which won the Ames Competition in the Harvard Law School, last January.

W. H. Pear has been one of the visiting lecturers in the Department of Social Ethics at Harvard this year.

R. F. Perkins has been residing in Santa Barbara during the last two winters. His daughter, Edith Forbes Perkins, was married to Kenneth Howes (Harv. '08), Jan 21 1922; his daughter, Anna Bowditch Perkins, will be married to Fairfield Goodale (Harv. '09), June 28, 1922; his son, Francis Bowditch Perkins, is an officer of the First National Bank of Burlington, Iowa.

G. A. Reisner returned to this country last fall with his wife and daughter. He had been absent in Egypt and Nubia for nearly ten years. He gave three courses at the University. He wrote to the Class Secretary: "America has become like a foreign country to us, owing to the great changes brought by the war."

W. F. Richards and his wife have presented an organ to the South Congregational Church in Newport, N. H.

J. H. Ropes has resigned as Dean in charge of University Extension, and as Dean of Special Students of the Faculty of Arts and Sciences.

C. M. Saville is chairman of the Connecticut State Commission to investigate pollutions of streams; also a member of the Hartford Meadows Development Commission, and chief engineer and superintendent of the Hartford Water Department.

J. H. Sears writes: "Same old thing."

P. S. Sears has been studying sculpture for the past two and a-half years.

S. E. Shuman has retired from active business, and writes: "I have no definite plans in view at present. I feel, after 34 years of 'plugging,' am due for a rest and shall try and perfect my golf game this summer—which I am fully aware is a tough proposition, and in the fall shall make a trip to California or some equally pleasant place."

W. H. Siebert has written a preface to "The Journal of Alexander Chesney, a South Carolina Loyalist in the Revolution and After," published by the Ohio State University, also "The Ohio State University in the World War," in the April number of the Ohio Archaeological and Historical Quarterly.

L. F. Snow is a Professor of English at the University of Chattanooga; President of the Hamilton County Council of Teacher of English; chairman of the English Section of the State Teachers' Association; deputy commissioner of the Boy Scouts Central District of Chattanooga, Tenn. He has been invited to teach English this summer at the George Peabody College for Teachers in Nashville, and is making the arrangements for the National Council of Teachers of English, to meet at Chattanooga in December.

S. W. Sturm is vice-chairman of the Community Chest and Council of Social Agencies of Cincinnati and Hamilton County.

W. H. Thayer's son, Charles E. Thayer 2d (Harv. '19), was married May 27, 1922, to Barbara Hall, at Medford, Mass.

A. W. Tolman has written, "Jim Spurling, Millman," a second book in the Jim Spurling series. (Harper Bros., Nov., 1921.)

P. D. Trafford's daughter, Melinda Trafford, is engaged to be married to Arthur Terry, Jr. (Princeton, '19).

Arthur Trail died at Frederick, Md., May 23, 1921. He was born at Frederick, Aug. 10, 1867, the son of Charles Edward and Ariana Theresa (McElfresh) Trail. He prepared for college at Phillips Exeter. After graduation he returned to Frederick, and has never since communicated with the Class or the Class Secretary.

C. A. Wait's daughter, Marian Ainsworth Wait, will graduate this spring at Smith College.

R. D. C. Ward is a member of the Administrative Board of Harvard College. He is a corresponding member of the American Geographical Society, vice-chairman of the Section of Meteorology of the American Geophysical Union, and a member of the American Philosophical Society. He has published during the past year eight scientific papers.

C. Warren has written "The Supreme Court in United States History" (Little, Brown & Co., 1922), in three volumes, depicting the Court from the historical rather than the legal standpoint, as a vital factor in the economic and political development of the Nation.

G. F. Weld was re-elected President of the Harvard Club of Santa Barbara, Calif., at the dinner, January 18, 1922, at which forty-two men were present, including Isham, '89, and Caner, '89. He has also been re-elected President of the Cosmopolitan Club of Santa Barbara, and trustee of the Museum of Comparative Oology. He has published "The Meaning of Christian Healing."

George Wentworth died at Belgrade Lakes, Me., August 26, 1921, being drowned while bathing. He was born at Exeter, N. H., Jan. 8, 1861, the son of George Albert and Emily Johnson (Hatch) Wentworth. After preparing for college at Phillips Exeter, he entered with the Class, October 2, 1886, and left at the end of the sophomore year. From 1886 to 1904, he was in the employ of the St. Paul, Minnesota, and Manitoba R. R. at St. Paul, Minn. He then returned to the East, where he resided in Brookline, Mass., engaged in editing and superintending the sale of the famous books on mathematics of his deceased father. He married Alice Maude Simpson, May 25, 1904, who with a daughter, Alice Howe Wentworth (born Feb. 27, 1905), survive him. Until within the last few years, he had had little connection with the Class, but of late he had shown much enthusiasm for its reunions.

M. Whitridge was elected in February, 1922, a trustee of Johns Hopkins Hospital. He writes that Brewster, '89, persuaded him to accept the appointment, and that: "We are doing a tremendous work there, and the hospital is growing fast; in fact, we are increasing it nearly four hundred beds."

J. M. Wilson's daughter, Helen C. Wilson, is a graduate of Radcliffe College, '21; his son, Donald Wilson, has a daughter, Nancy Wilson, born Oct. 25, 1921; his daughter, Dorothy Wilson, was married to L. Olin Summers, April 22, 1922.

G. E. Wright toured Northern New England last fall in a motor. His daughter, Elisabeth, is to be married June 29, 1922. He writes: "I have found my time comfortably occupied in the practice of my profession, which becomes more interesting as I grow older. As I write this letter, I look across the harbor upon one of the most beautiful mountain ranges which any city has within its view, and I feel that I have much cause to be satisfied with a quiet and unostentatious life, in a pleasant home and a pleasant city."

SONS OF '89 AT HARVARD.

College:

Senior Class, '22.—Philip Leverett Saltonstall, Philip Mason Sears.

Junior Class, '23.—George Curtis Eaton, William Hathaway Forbes, Henry Sturgis Morgan, James Robbins Reynolds, George Hodges Shattuck.

Sophomore Class, '24.—Lawrence Eliot Bunker, Raymond Thayer Bunker, Thomas Proctor Mandell, James Montgomery Newell, Jr., William Crapo Prescott, David Sears, 2d.

Freshman Class, '25.—Bradford Chaloner Durfee, Gurdon Saltonstall Howe, Perry Davis Trafford, Jr.

Law School:

Third Year.—Franklin Eddy Parker, Jr.

Second Year.—James Gore King, Jr., Oliver Prescott, Jr.

First Year.—Bryant Prescott, Edward Cabot Storrow, Jr.

Medical School:

Fourth Class.—George Colket Caner.

Third Class.—Mark Lewis Gerstle, Jr., Robert Lincoln Goodale.

School of Architecture: Denison Bingham Hull.

At Commencement, on June 23, 1921, the following sons of '89 received degrees of A.B.: Gerald Wayne Caner, Carleton Hunneman, Jr. (for Honorable Service in the War), Bryant Prescott (magna cum laude, in Literature, especially Latin and English), Edward Cabot Storrow, Robert Saltonstall Ward, Edric Emory Weld (magna cum laude, in Economics); and for Honorable Service in the War, Charles Douglas Case, Harold Hovey Holliday, Charles Edward Thayer, as of the Class of 1919.

From the records furnished to the Class Secretary by Class Members it appears that of the 225 sons of '89 men reported at the time of the Twenty-fifth Anniversary, 74 have attended Harvard College down to date.

COURSES GIVEN IN 1921-1922 AT HARVARD COLLEGE
BY '89 PROFESSORS AND INSTRUCTORS.

Babbitt:

- French 15 hf, Pascal and Port Royal.
- French 17, Literary Criticism in France.
- Comparative Literature 11, The Romantic Movement in the Nineteenth Century.

Cabot:

- Social Ethics A, Human Relations.
- Social Ethics 16 hf, The Kingdom of Evils.
- Social Ethics 20, Special Researches.
- Social Ethics 20a, Seminary in Social Ethics.

Maynadier:

- English 22, English Composition.
- English 73 hf, The English Short Story.

Moore:

- Latin 8, Horace, Persius, Juvenal.
- Latin 10 hf, A Survey of Roman Civilization.

Reisner:

- Egyptology, 2 hf, History of Egypt to Alexander the Great.
- Egyptology, 4 hf, History of Egyptian Art.

Ropes:

- Classical Philology, 77 hf, The New Testament: Selections from the Gospels.
- English 35 hf, The English Bible: the New Testament.

Ward:

- Meteorology, 1 hf, Elementary Meteorology: the Weather and Weather Forecasting.
- Meteorology 2 hf, Climatology (general course): Climate and Man.
- Meteorology 3 hf, Climatology of North America.
- Meteorology 4 hf, Climatology of Latin America.
- Meteorology 20, Climatology (research course).